

CALL FOR PAPERS

Summer Semester 2019 !

The GENDER LAB in the ‘Hafenzimmer’

You have just finished your Bachelor or Master’s Thesis, or Dissertation, and would like to discuss this in a lively context outside the university? Or are you still in the middle of the work and writing process but would enjoy an exchange of views on your chosen topic? You don’t have much experience in how to present a scientific work and would like to give it a try? Or you’re currently working on an exciting research project connected with gender studies which you would like to present and would like to meet other students and teachers working in this area and network with them?

The Göttingen Centre for Gender Studies, in co-operation with the graduate School for Liberal Studies (GSGC) and the Göttingen Graduate School for Social Sciences (GGC), has been running the Gender Lab since the Winter Semester 2015/16, in which Bachelor and Master’s students, doctoral candidates and Post-Docs have the opportunity to present their projects.

The idea behind the Gender Lab is to give added publicity to Gender Studies in Göttingen and to offer other students and relative newcomers the chance to discuss their work in a helpful context and to set up networks.

Our hope is that our Call for Papers (Note Deadline: 22 February 2019) will attract students attached to Göttingen University, and who are working in the field of Gender Studies, to join us for the coming Summer Semester. We see the Gender Lab also as an open forum for new methods of presentation and for discussion of various theoretical perspectives and working procedures in the field.

In the Summer Semester 2019 the Gender Lab will be held in the ‘Hafenzimmer’ (Salon for Art and Culture)!

Invitees can decide on their own mode of presentation. If needed, commentators and /or interlocutors can be found with the assistance of the Gender Lab team.

Informal applications including your name, course or field of studies, title of your paper (if possible with descriptive sub-title) and a short abstract (max. 400 words) should be submitted please by 22 February 2019 to both (!) email addresses of the organizers:
