

Seasonal worker (m/f/d) in the Hybrid Rye Seed production

Field of work: Seed Production

Location: Italy

Duration: End of April – Middle of May

You share a passion for plants and want to gain your first practical experience in the breeding process, specifically in seed production. This is your opportunity to do so in Italy.

What awaits you in this position:

- The opportunity to gain significant insights into the production and selection of breeding materials
- Hands-on tasks: You will be part of a small group which is responsible for the epuration of breeding material in multiple fields
- Great team spirit and respectful cooperation

You should bring that with you:

- You are a student of agricultural sciences or related fields
- Physical work in the open air is no problem for you
- Willingness to work overtime and weekends
- Willingness to stay in Italy for three weeks without interruption
- Good spoken English; basic knowledge of German
- Open personality with good communication skills

Details:

The responsible breeding station is located in Bergen, Lower Saxony. However, all activities for the job will take place in Italy. The company will cover hotel and travel costs.
